Preface

Public Administration today has increased both in magnitude and directions, to look after the welfare of the people, using new tool and techniques, made available by science and technology. It is true that public Administration would throw light on the qualities of good Administration. The components of good public administration help in formulating of policies which are realistic, feasible, and practical. It helps responsibility in an administration.

Public Administration is a country has to ensure positive interactions with nations in the world through bilateral and multilateral channels to ensure development. It also supports execution of policies and plans in world levels countries, Government organizations, non-governmental organizations and soon.

The scope of Public Administration subject is very high as it covers every area and activity governed by public policy. There are many principles theories and approaches to the study of this subject. Here in this book I have given a brief about the same.

I have depended heavily on various reports, magazines and books and benefited from works on the public Administration by several scholars. I am grateful to all of them.

I acknowledge my sincere gratitude and debts to Lion.Dr.H.Mohammed Ali, the Secretary, Dr.G.Edwin Sheela, the Principal the Management the Staff and Students of our College, for their encouragement.

At this juncture, let me express my thanks wholeheartedly to my Lord almighty for the knowledge, strength, guidance and blessing showed upon me.

It is hoped that the book would be of great use of students and staff members.

with regards

Dr.C.AMOSE.
